WORK VALUES

PRIORITISE WORK VALUES

 1 activity

 2 min

Understanding your values and how important they are in a work context is critical as it will help determine how likely you will like this career long term.

If the career involves things that go against your values you may find that your long term happiness is impacted.

In the following activity reflect on each value and order them in a way that makes sense to you personally. Be careful to make sure they are YOUR values and not those of your family, friends or community.

Wow, you are
THE DESIGNER

"I am curious and love to construct things. If you wanted the tallest and strongest tower made of spaghetti and marshmallows, ask me, I love a challenge! I like to understand the theories that sit behind the design and creativity of things and how they are made. When I think about my skills and the type of work I'd like to get into, it would definitely be something that blends maths, science and engineering and art. Chimpanzees are great at creative problem solving with others, and I dig that! "
